

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter, the writer presents about the conclusion and suggestion based on result of the study.

5.1 Conclusion

After analyzing and discussing the students' errors in their report text about animal (elephant and birds), the writer can conclude that the students made errors in all types. It means that the types of errors that were made by the students are Misformation, Omission, Addition, and Misordering.

1. The kinds of errors that were made by the students are misformation, omission, addition, and misordering.
2. The most frequent grammatical errors is omission with 29 errors, with the percentage 41.41%. It is followed by addition 24 errors, with the percentage 34.28%, misformation 15 errors, with the percentage 21.41% and misordering 2 errors, with the percentage 2.89%.
3. The students have a big trouble with grammar, especially in using tense, to be, has have, and possessive pronoun.

5.2 Suggestion

The result of the study shows that there are some errors made by the students. Therefore, the writer likes to give some suggestions to the teacher and the students.

1. The Teacher

The teacher should teach the students how to write a text and give the students chance to practice. The practises should be focused on grammar especially in using tenses, verb, noun, conjunction, possessive pronoun, adjective, preposition, and update the comprehension in English Vocabulary.

2. The Students

The students should learn how to write a text focusing on grammar especially in using tenses, verb, noun, conjunction, possessive pronoun, adjective, preposition, and the meaning of vocabulary
